"TEXAN'S HOLIDAY" OPENS WEDNESDAY

By JIM PLASTINO

Swinging into its fourth year is Mu Sigma's Variety Show, this year entitled "Texan's Holiday." The production will start its three-day run at the Woman's Century Club Theatre next Wednesday evening at 8:30.

In previous years the show was confined to a musical revue. This season it has been broadened into a musical drama.

In keeping with its name, many types of musical and dramatic entertainment will be included in the Variety Show. Singers, dancers, chorus lines, musicians, and a host of actors and actresses compose the program.

A cast of over 100, plus a crew of 150 technicians and stagehands, are putting the finishing touches on the show which has been a month in the making.

Drawing leading roles are Bob Suver as Bill, Danny Ryan as the caddy, and Dolores Cheek as Candy. The supporting cast will be headed by John Morgan, winner of the KING-TV talent hunt; Pat and Sally Rice, creative dance team; John Pietromonaco, keyboard stylist; the Chanticleers, dance band combo; and the SU Choir. Others include dancers Mary Ann Marti and Emmett Casey, plus Shirley Givins, 1953 Seattle Seafair Queen.

A limited number of tickets are now on sale for "Texan's Holiday." Student general admission tickets are free with student body cards, and student reserved seats are 25 cents with ASSU cards. Adult fare is $1 and $1.25.

"Texan's Holiday" is the tale of a poverty-stricken farmer, Bill, who suddenly becomes wealthy when oil is discovered on his land. He then decides to return to his birthplace, Seattle, to enjoy a day on the town. No sooner does he arrive than he is spotted by a cab-driver who figures him for a quick kill and offers to show Bill around the town. The bulk of the story deals with the Texan's adventures in the city's nightspots.

VFW Dedicates New Flag Pole

Under the chairmanship of F. J. Baer, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, dedication of the flagpole will take place on the University mall at 10 o'clock, Wednesday, Nov. 11. Among those attending are Captain Edmund O'Callahan, the ROTC, VFW Ladies Auxiliary drill team, and a number of members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. All students are invited to come. Guest speaker will be Seattle attorney Fred Dore, a graduate of Gonzaga University.

During the playing of the "Star-Spangled Banner" by the Seattle U band, the flag will be raised. Given to the University by Captain Harry C. Holderman, this historical flag had originally belonged to the McCormick Division during the Spanish-American War.

Through the effort of many persons, the completion of the project has been made possible. The marble base, donated by the Veterans of Foreign Wars in 1951, was transported by the Pacific Telephone Co., and was erected by volunteer workers.

The white flag, seen flying at times under the regular flag, serves to remind the ROTC members of drill practice.

Campus Mag's Publication Set

SU's first student-published magazine is past the drafting and planning stage and is set for late November publication.

It will be neither strictly in the literary nor humorous vein, but a combination designed to appeal to the whole student body.

"Tom Tom" is the name chosen for the quarterly under the sponsorship of Gamma Sigma Alpha, journalism honorary.

The name suggests communication and is in keeping with the University's Indian theme. It was submitted by the former Gamma Sig president, Hank Bussman.

An editorial board will consist of Gamma Sig members and the faculty advisory board is headed by Father Fred Harrison, S.J.

Leila Charbonneau, president, who is editing, says, "The success of the new magazine will depend on student interest and cooperation." Everyone is invited to submit articles, and the editor may be contacted in the "Aegis" office.

Financing will be divided between the cost, 25 cents, and advertising. Bill Finnegan is business manager. Art editor is Bill O'Donnell.

Banquet on Tap For Republicans

Starting the year of social events for the Young Republicans of SU is a banquet for Thomas A. Pelly, Congressman from the First District of Washington. They are sponsoring this event jointly with the University of Washington Young Republican Club.

The banquet will be held at the Wilsonian Hotel on November 14 at 6:30 p.m. with both students and adults participating. Dick Manning of Seattle U will be moderator of the program at which some prominent speakers will appear. A U. of W. quartet and orchestra will also be featured.

Everyone is invited to attend the banquet and tickets may be purchased from members of the club. Tickets for the affair will be $1.75 for students and $2.25 for adults.

Officers Elected

At their last meeting, the Young Republicans elected Edward Mueller president to succeed Dick Manning.

dance are Kathy Humes and Dona Donaldson, assisted by Joanne Carroll and Frankie Bergman, all committees; Mary Ann Marti, Suzanne and Suzette Riverman, publicity; Dorothy Schaaf and Marcia Dodson, programs.

Dance programs are cut-out with Sadie Hawkins on the cover and a pig on the inside.

Garments for this dance are suits for the boys and dresses and heels for girls. But, as at any tolo, the boys are not required to buy flowers for the girls.

Tickets, which are $2.50, are on sale Thursday and Friday at the Information Booth. They will also be available at the dance.

Godfrey Show Picks Former SU Student

Lloyd Lindroth, former Seattle U music student, captured the top spot on Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts radio program last Monday. His swing harp version of "Cumana" and "Tea for Two" will be repeated for TV viewers over Station KTNT, Channel 11, Monday, Nov. 16, at 8:30.

As part of his winnings, Lloyd is appearing on the daily Arthur Godfrey radio program this week and will be introduced to many top producers in the field of show business. The Army has donated 11 days' extra leave for his New York appearances. Mrs. E. W. Lindroth, Lloyd's mother, told the Spec that this will not be counted off his expected Christmas leave.

Lloyd enlisted in the Army last January and immediately joined the Army Band. When Godfrey questioned him on the air, he claimed that he was not at all sorry he had enlisted. He said that the Band has been a great help to his music education.

On Steve Allen Show

Chosen as one of three Army contestants from the East Coast Army Patrol programs, Lloyd represented Fort Belvoir, Virginia, where he now serves. He formerly won first place on the Steve Allen Show.

Lloyd attended Seattle U from fall quarter, 1950, until his enlistment last winter. During that time he entertained in several popular Seattle night-spots, was featured on his own TV program, and donated his talents for local charity benefits.

Judicial Board Exams Monday

Judicial Board exams will be given in Room 219 next Monday, Nov. 9, at 12:15 p.m. Only sophomores can take this test, the results of which will fill the three soph vacancies on the board.

This exam will cover points contained in the ASSU Constitution. Copies of the pre-May, 1953, Constitution are still available at the ASSU office or at the Information Booth.

The Judicial Board is composed of three members from each of the Sophomore, Junior and Senior Classes.

'Cheap-Skate' Saturday

By ANN O'DONNELL

Rolling into the spotlight Saturday night, Nov. 7, will be the Third Annual "Cheap-Skate." Scene of the SPECTATOR-sponsored all-school roller skating event will be the Rolladium, at 4750 - 25th Avenue N.E.

At the second session, from 10 o'clock to 12:30, SU rollers can skate, roll, or trip in single, couple, and worst skater events.

Worst Skater Prize

Planning to defend his "Worst Skater at SU" title Saturday night, Bob Klug declared, "A champion is never a champion until he repeats."

A door prize, as well as the worst skater trophy, will be awarded.

Shaping plans for the skate party are Co-Chairmen Dennis Payton, Bob Ryan, and Ann O'Donnell. Working with them are committee members Darrel Brittain, Patty Brannon, Virginia Hardy, Marilyn Steckler, Al Acena and Johnny Mingus.

Tickets are available in the Chieftain and Spec office. So roll along by car or the Number 8 (Ravenna) bus to the gala skating party of the year, the Cheap Skate.

CHEAP-SKATERS Darrell Brittain, former NW speed skating champ, Dennis Payton, Ann O'Donnell and Bob Ryan look over a photo of the Rolladium, this year's location for the Cheap-Skate.

Attention! Attention, all members of the feline family exhibiting abnormal tendencies (Krazy Kat, to you, Mac.) Get your membership cards now, while they last.

Grand and Exalted Order of KRAZY KAT

This is to certify that the bearer is hep, cool, frantic, and above all real gone with the mostest, and is entitled to all privileges and respect due thereto.

NOTE: Applicants must be slightly nervous, under 65, and show proof of previous maladjustment. If you are not a regular reader of this column and only looked down here because you saw the above card, well lie on you and you can't have one.

Last Friday the Barn Dance developed into a real neat blast for the hipsters and their gone gates. Amidst the velocitatin' vampires and gone goblins, the frantic fiddlers were sending a nervous rendition of swing that was really the most, to say the least.

Now lest this column go completely to pot, let's do a little reporting. New territory, hitherto unexplored, was tramped on by Hiyu Coolee-filled boots Sunday, in an arduous trek over mountainous terrain in search of the wreckage of a plane lost four years ago—with a reward of $500 offered for the finder.

Heavy training at the Cottage each week night (Sundays off) is paying dividends for the casaba crew. Last Friday's scrimmage ended: Varsity 97, Frosh 67.

Was reading an article in a recent journal about unrest in education. Can't help wondering if it has anything to do with the fidgeting so evident in the duller lectures.

THE STAGE IS SET

Next week the fourth annual Variety Show—"Texan's Holiday" is the theme this year—will be staged at the Woman's Century Club Theater. It deserves the support of every Seattle University student. Without having seen the Mu Sigma production in its entirety, we can, nevertheless, give it our earnest backing and urge everyone to see it.

Since the first Variety Show, in 1949, this stage show has introduced to the public many outstanding acts—some of which are now part of SU's traditions.

In that first show the SU Choir made its debut, as did the now defunct Workshop Band. Last year's audience heard the Chanticleers in their first performance before an SU crowd and also heard the premiere of the SU Fight Song, already a familiar campus melody.

The best in SU talent has always gone on the boards for the Variety Show and this year is no exception.

The time, energy and talents of about 250 students are involved in on-stage and off-stage production of the show. It is easily one of the biggest extra-curricular activities right now, outside of dances and perhaps intramural football.

Musicians, singers, dancers, thespians, stage and scenery hands, make-up men, publicity promoters, ticket-sellers—all are endeavoring to put on a worthwhile, diverting and entertaining evening at the Century Club.

There's no difficulty about attending the performances next week. The theatre is at the north end of the Broadway District, handy to busses, cars and even foot-power. The ticket situation, too, is well in hand as far as students are concerned. Prior to a performance, you can receive a ticket upon the presentation of a student body card to a Mu Sigman at the Information Booth—a ticket, incidentally, you paid for with your SB fee.

If you want a reserved seat, all it'll cost you is 25 cents. Non-students, however, will have to pay the full admission price.

Finally, invite everyone and everybody you know to attend, see the show yourself and we'll see you at "Texan's Holiday."

SU IS GRATEFUL

This past summer the sight of Old Glory by the mall, waving in the breeze, had at last become a reality instead of a future dream.

Due mainly to the efforts of volunteers from the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who donated the flagpole, Seattle University has a worthy staff on which America's flag can fly.

It has been two years since the VFW gave the pole. In that period many complications hindered the completion of the project. Tenth Avenue at the time had not been vacated and there was no mall. So the flagstaff lay in sections near the then being constructed Chieftain Building until a few months ago.

Now it is a thing in fact—sturdy base, glistening shaft, fluttering banner. Sincere thanks are due the many persons from the VFW, as well as officials here on campus, who earnestly have seen to the completion of this undertaking.

On Armistice Day, Wednesday next, the pole will be officially dedicated. Even though the day is a school holiday, it would be a good gesture for members of the student body to be present.

SU Applauds . . . Leila Charbonneau

• JOANNE CARROLL

Leila Charbonneau found her way up to the SPEC office in 1950, hoping that someone would "please" let her work on the paper. What she hadn't expected happened. She was welcomed in the usual way—that is, given an assignment immediately and her feature appeared in the following issue. From that time on, her visits to the "Tower" were frequent.

By her sophomore year, Leila took over the position of feature editor. The next year her name was moved up to the top position, editor-in-chief.

If you're looking for her this year, just drop into the "Aegis" office, or better still, look for Jon Arnt. You will probably find her leading him around for pictures. As this year's co-editor of the annual, "Sam" is an even busier woman. The column, "Broadway and Madison Crossroads," is her weekly contribution to this page.

Sodality is a very definite part of her program. Counseling several applicants and attending weekly meetings is all in the day's work.

Two honoraries claim her as a member and officer. Leila is secretary of Silver Scroll, women's honorary, and president of Gamma Sigma Alpha, journalism honorary. A quarterly magazine is her much-hoped-for future project. Secretary of the Philosophy Club was another position held by Madam Editor.

While working at her part-time job for Mrs. Leonard, Leila made one of her biggest mistakes. She registered a boy in one of the women's halls. As soon as his acceptance was received a hurried telegram was sent: "Cancel reservations stop I'm a boy stop Make plans accordingly."

After receiving her degree in English, Leila's ambition is to get a position with a family magazine, but in the meantime there is an annual to publish.

A lei of orchids to you, Madam Editor, and good luck.

Just A Minute . . .

• DONA DONALDSON

The autumnal equinox has been upon us and now, with frosty mornings, is the time for all good birds to be winging their way to sunnier climes.

From Arctic nesting grounds and ice-locked rivers wild geese, ducks, and brants fly south down mysterious flyways.

There are four major "aerial rivers," Atlantic Flyway, the Mississippi, the central, and the Pacific. Birds probably have used these since the end of the last Ice Age but no one has figured out how they follow their exact schedule.

Robins stay north relatively late and many do not leave at all. Blue geese go toward the salt marshes and mud-flats of Louisiana, Texas, and Mexico in September.

Sometimes tragedies occur during migration. In fog, storms, or over bright city skylines at night, flocks of birds may crash into buildings. Skyscrapers and bridges take annual toll of thousands.

Many birds fly tremendous distances over open oceans. From Nova Scotia, American golden plovers follow a path over the Atlantic to northeastern shores of South America, making the flight in three days and three nights.

Long-distance champion of the bird world is the Arctic tern. From as far north as there is land, on islands rimming the Arctic sea, the determined bird flies across the ocean to Europe in early September, down the west coast of Africa, and to the fringes of Antarctica, returning to the Arctic in the spring via South America, flying some 22,000 miles en route.

Maybe as a result of all the Hollywood movie-making, British and Belgian scientists have been tromping around Africa's "Mountains of the Moon," discovering deposits of gold and radioactive ores.

The Ruwenzoris, as they are officially called, are a tall, snowy, mist-shrouded range between British Uganda and the Belgian Congo. Heather plants on the slopes grow to a height of 60 and 70 feet. Varieties of lobelia, and other common garden weeds, grow to tree size.

The Greek cartographer, Ptolemy, was the first to map the area which was thought to contain King Solomon's fabulous mines. They were named in the belief that the moon had descended to touch their tips and turn them to silver.

Stay at Seattle U and you may become famous! Or at least you can watch others travel up the pathway to success. Such is the case for those among us who remember Lloyd Lindroth. As you see by the front page, Lloyd was the current winner of Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts program with his swing harp renditions.

Notoriety was added to Lloyd's laurels last fall when many a gleeful student discovered his amazing resemblance to the "Quo Vadis" Nero. Never did this faze or embarrass him in any way. In fact, he added to the simile by bringing his "baby" Irish harp to practice in the "Cave." His imitation of Nero's "Oh, omniverous bowers" accompanied several dinner hours, to everyone's delight.

Lloyd often brought his harp (the full-sized one) up to school in the evenings and practiced in a quiet classroom. Occasional audiences would drop in to sit and listen to his stylized popular or classical music. He would patiently play all requests and often would continue his practice periods 'til midnight. Both in words and action, Lloyd expressed his belief that "If you want something bad enough you really have to work at it."

It seems that the SPEC is sponsoring a roller-skating shindig, open to all SU "wheels," next Saturday.

How About

This One?

Our abstruse problem this week was most graciously submitted by Fr. Hayden Vachon, S.J.

The question: Using the numbers 1 to 9 only once in each square, place the numbers in such a way that they total 15 in each direction counted. Horizontally, vertically and diagonally. No number may be used more than once.

A Letter Home

• KAY CROWLEY

Dear Ma,

How are you? You know those envelopes that you keep sending me keep piling up on my desk and the housemother told me I had to clean them up so I thought I might as well rite you. Gee, Mom, school is really great. How are my prize goat and Pa and Jeff? You know I just haven't had time to write. Somebody always wants you to go down to the Cave with them.

Now, Mom, don't get the wrong idea—it's not really a cave like the ones we have at home. It's a sort of cafeteria in the CUB (Chieftain Union Building.) When Marion—that's a girl from Enumclaw (that's a city near here)—asked me to go down and have a cup of coffee in the "cave" I thought she was crazy, but I didn't want to look dumb so I just said "O.K."

Boy, was I surprised! I don't know why they call it the Cave. I always thought bears lived in caves but these are more like wolves.

And Ma, everyone over here drinks coffee BLACK. I just about gagged when I tried to drink it but I didn't want to look dumb so I swallowed it all right, to the last drop. I felt a little sick for a couple of days but now I'm sorta getting so I can bear it.

Marion's mother sent her a real nice box of brownies and fudge yesterday. It sure was good. In fact, she's sent about three so far. Really operating a goodies ring. I feel sorta funny, eating her stuff all the time and not offering her any. Don't think I'm hinting though, Ma. It's O.K. Sure get hungry over here.

Well, Ma, I've gotta go down to the Cottage now with the kids. Tell Andrew I still love him and all the boys over here have haircuts.

Love,
SUZIE.

P.S.: The Cottage is a place where you buy hamburgers and coffee and stuff.—S.

I intended to look up the origin of the sport, "to roller-skate," but decided it could probably be figured out logically (that's easier than going to the library, anyway). It must have been an American invention because we are a people who like to roll around, even if we don't know where we are rolling to.

We hear that you don't need skating talent to get in the Rolladium. In fact, you are more likely to win a prize if you are lousy, so don't try too hard. Just be there and have some wheel fun! (I can't stand myself either.)

The current "Newsweek" is a goldmine of interesting material pertinent to Seattle and Seattle U. The four-page spread on "Pacific Northwest and Seattle: Shape of the '60's" sounds like a dream come true for the Seattle Chamber of Commerce.

In the same issue we find the revealing article, "U.S. Campus Kids of 1953: Unkiddable and Unbeatable," telling us that we are pretty good after all. We get a more familiar note, however, from a Georgetown Jesuit priest (you find them everywhere) who "was critical because boys have adopted a 'labor-union approach' to the 'management'."

This Is Really Living

V. L.

Even in our present atomic age, man must begin from the bottom and work up to attain the position or end he most desires. Let us look at this "stairway" of development from another angle.

Starting from the floor of the LA Building, have you noticed the ing from the floor of the Liberal Arts Building, have you noticed the amount of cigarette butts lying haphazardly around, degrading our institution? It is certainly understood, of course, that we cannot put the cigarette stubs in our pants cuffs or our purses. Where else can we put the stubs of the pleasurable habit causers? Probably the only solution to this problem is to place cigarette disposals on the first floor of the building. Such a small addition to the building should not take up much room and the rewards received after a while would more than pay for the cost of the dispensers originally.

Continuing along the "stairway" and the eyes rising along the walls of any of the buildings on campus, one is forced to look at the disgusting presentation of finger and hand prints decorating these walls. Truly a repulsive sight, especially since we here at SU consider ourselves college students. If we were to consider the University our home, with the new Student Union Building our living room, it would probably be a different situation. No one would dare lay a paw on the walls. Why can't more of the students reason this way. If they did, the janitors would certainly get out of a lot of overtime work, such as cleaning finger prints off the walls, inches out of their reach. It all sounds like a bunch of hokey, but the janitors go around nightly just cleaning prints off the walls where some unthinking bruno or jane stood, trying to push them in. Believe it? If not why don't you have a look!

Is there a remedy for this unnecessary sport? There is, but it must be found first. That is why your suggestion would be most appreciated, not only a suggestion to this problem, but to any problem which you yourself would like to see "pushed or polished." Remember what Confucius once said: "The trip of a thousand miles begins with one step!" That one step is your suggestion on how to improve your campus.

Anyone for apple-polishing? Tuesday, Nov. 10, is the red letter day for this year's Apple Sale.

Girls dressed in cotton will sell apples at all main points on campus. First main project of the year, the sale is sponsored by Associated Women Students. Proceeds go toward boosting the AWSSU fund. Co-chairmen in charge of all Apple Sale day events are Gayle Cushing and Jolie Fuetsch.

"Any girl wishing to volunteer her services may sign the list posted on the bulletin board this week," states Jolie. Billie Marie Gannon and Virginia Hardy are in charge of handling publicity.

'Mademoiselle' College Board Contest Open

"Mademoiselle" magazine is now accepting applications from undergraduate women for membership on its 1953-54 college board.

Girls who are accepted on the college board do three assignments during the college year. These give them a chance to write features about life on their campus; to submit art work, fashion or promotion ideas for possible use in "Mademoiselle"; to develop their critical and creative talents; to discover their own abilities and job interest.

College board members who come out among the top twenty on the assignments win a guest editorship and will be brought to New York next June to help write, edit, and illustrate the August College Issue. They will be paid a regular salary for their month's work, plus round-trip transportation to New York City.

While in New York, each guest editor takes part in a full calendar of activities designed to give her a head start in her career. She interviews a celebrity in her chosen field, visits fashion workrooms, newspaper offices, stores, and advertising agencies.

Nov. 30 is the deadline for applying for membership on this board. Applicants write a criticism of "Mademoiselle's" August, 1953, College Issue. Successful candidates will be notified of acceptance on the college board early in December; the first assignment will appear in "Mademoiselle's" January issue.

For further information write to College Board Editor, Mademoiselle, 575 Madison Ave., New York 22, N.Y.

Newest addition to the men's halls, at 808 Tenth Avenue, has been recently christened Regis Hall.

Fearless Forecasts!

This week our four hand-picked experts again challenge SU's arm-chair quarterbacks to predict the outcome of next Saturday's grid games. This is your chance to show how well you really know football. Predictions must be in the SPEC office on the second floor of the Student Union Building by noon Friday. Include in your predictions the score by quarters of the Washington-California game for use in case of ties. If you can beat our fearless forecasters your prize will be a carton of Chesterfield cigarettes. We are giving our editor another chance after last week's "record" of four right, five wrong and one tie. Fortunately, the other three experts had a total of only six wrong, so as yet no one has been able to claim the Chesterfields. Maybe you will be the lucky one.

FOOTBALL NEWS

By J. SULLIVAN
A COMEBACK

Utah led at the half 7 to 0, but Washington rallied after the intermission to win last Saturday's contest 21 to 14. The Huskies displayed the same spirit and never-say-die attitude that they did in the Stanford game. Led by Don Rydlach's passing and Don Peterson's powerful running, the Redskins completely outplayed the Huskies in the first half. The Redskins scored on a 67-yard march after taking the opening kickoff. But after the intermission Coach Cherberg's boys got to work and scored three touchdowns. All of the Washington scores were passes by Sandy Lederman. George Black caught two of them, while Jim Houston caught the other. Black played a great game, both on offense and defense.

Due to the foul weather many fans missed a game which had everyone breathless when the final gun did sound. They also missed an exhibition by one of the finest marching bands in the country. The Utah band gave out with some fine music and their 180-steps-a-minute marching was amazing. The Washington band turned in their best performance of the season, and they didn't look too bad against the Utes.

AROUND THE NATION

The Notre Dame Irish scored four touchdowns in the second period as they rolled over Navy last Saturday. Head Coach Frank Leahy watched the game on television in his hospital room. He is recovering from a stomach ailment. But the boys went out and won a big one for him. The final score was 38 to 7.

The Maryland Terrapins scored another victory to strengthen their position as second team in the nation. They scored four touchdowns in defeating South Carolina 24 to 6.

The Green Wave from Tulane turned out to be a stone wall for the Army eleven Saturday. The Cadets had only lost one game, but the best they could manage this week was a scoreless tie.

Kentucky scored an upset victory over Rice last Saturday by a 19-to-13 score. Kentuckian Joe Platt led the way with his pass interceptions.

The NCAA television game last Saturday was another great ball game. Led by Paul Giel, the Minnesota Gophers walloped the Pittsburgh Panthers by the score of 35 to 14. Giel scored three times, and turned in an all-round performance which shows why he is an All-American.

The Purdue "giant killers" couldn't handle the Illini Saturday and they went to their losing ways by a score of 21 to 0. Illinois' Bates and Caroline paced the attack. Caroline's rushing total for the season is 891 yards—a new record for the school.

OTHER COAST GAMES

UCLA kept their Rose Bowl hopes alive by beating the Golden Bears of California 20 to 7. Led by Paul Cameron, the Bruins broke a half-time tie with two touchdowns in the second period, and they kept the Bears on the defensive for the rest of the game.

George Shaw led Oregon to victory over USC. The Trojans were heavy favorites, but the Ducks outscored them 13 to 7. Shaw, playing end, scored once for the Oregonians and sparked the other scoring march.

Led by Quarterback Bobby Garrett, the Stanford Indians ran over Washington State 48 to 19. Garrett completed 11 out of 14 passes, three of them going for touchdowns. Garrett also kicked six conversions in six tries.

Michigan State bounded back from their defeat of last week and took their wrath out on OSC. The Oregonians' only score was registered by Brown while the Spartans ran up five touchdowns. The final score was 34 to 6.

RACE FOR THE ROSES

With only three weeks left in the race for the Rose Bowl, nobody can say who the participants will be. On the Coast, Stanford is undefeated in conference play, but they have two tough games left—Cal and Southern Cal. California must meet Washington and the Indians. USC and UCLA have yet to play each other. Thus, with many of the more important games left, the conference race is still a wide open affair.

Similarly, in the Big Ten race nothing is certain. However, Illinois is now favored to take the title. But Michigan State is still a strong contender.

LOCAL GAMES

Captain Bob Ward scored two touchdowns and two conversions as the Whitworth Pirates eked out a 14-13 victory over the Seattle Ramblers. It was Whitworth's eight straight win and the Ramblers' first loss in thirteen games.

Seattle Prep easily beat the Bellarmine Lions last week 31 to 13. This week the Prepsters play their big game of the season. Their foe is Stadium, and if the Panthers win they would be high on the list of possible participants in the Thanksgiving Day game with the Seattle champs.

Queen Anne and West Seattle are on top of the city league at present, and they should decide the title when they play a week from Saturday.

PREDICTIONS

Last week I fared quite well in my predictions, losing only one, and having one tie. So, looking into the crystal ball I find—

Baylor over Texas
Utah over Colorado
California over Washington
Navy over Duke
Illinois over Michigan

Mississippi State over Tulane
San Jose State over COP
USC over Stanford
WSC over TCU
Seattle Prep over Stadium

Bowling News

By DON LeQUET

The question arises in the bowling ranks as to just who is going to stop the talented "Cannibals" from making a complete walkaway of the league scramble for the title. (They are currently leading the throng by virtue of 13 wins against only three defeats.) They began competition with a surprising burst of strength that has shown no signs of weakening throughout the current campaign.

However, before we "cry Cannibal" once too often, the fact remains the "Yanks" are still to be reckoned with, as well as several other teams who seem determined to make more than a one-way show of it.

George Crispin and Marilyn Gropper practically dominated the league this week, as far as individual honors go. George's lusty 207 is a new season high, as well as high for the week. Marilyn turned the trick for the girls with a 154. She also garnered series honors, with 435 pins to her credit. George rang the bell again in this department, accumulating 541. The Sleepers rolled to a team game high of 532, and the Holy Rollers earned weekly series notice with 1756.

Closely examining the records, we find that George and Marilyn, our stars of the week, are leading the league in practically every department, a fine tribute to the skill and finesse they must exhibit in every game.

JERRY'S BOYS BEAT BRUISERS

Pat Coyne Leads Boys To 40-0 Victory

Crisp blocking and accurate passing helped Jerry's Boys run over the previously unbeaten Bruisers in the feature game of intramural play last week, and moved them into a tie for the league lead with the Tacoma Boys and the Suds.

Schrapps' team scored early in the first quarter when Coyne hit Schmidt in the end zone with a 40-yard pass. By half-time they had upped the score to 26-0. Jerry's Boys continued to pour it on in the second half. The big gainer was a pass—Drumme to Richards. The play covered 50 yards to the Bruisers 10, and Coyne ran it over from there. Schmidt scored twice in the game, and Coyne, Drummey, Richards, and Vaughn each picked up one TD. The final score was 40-0.

Today is the big one. Jerry's Boys and the Tacoma Boys clash in the game of the week and the contest that should decide the championship. Jerry's Boys, an all-senior team, sport a ten-game win streak and haven't been beaten since the latter part of 1951. The speed and fine passing of Drumme, Richards, and Coyne has netted 92 points in three games, while the defensive platoon, sparked by the line play of Hopper, Schmidt and DeMan has held their opponents to only 12 points.

The Tacoma Boys boast an equally impressive record averaging 37 points per game, while holding their opposition to an average of only four. All in all there should be quite a ball game at Broadway Playfield at 1 p.m.

Syracuse Gets I.R.A.

The 52nd Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta will be held on Lake Onondaga again this year. This announcement by the IRA stewards comes as a great disappointment to all Northwest fans of the eight-oared sports. University of Washington officials have been trying to bring the race to Seattle ever since the Poughkeepsie, New York, site was abandoned in 1950.

This is the third time that the race has been held on Lake Onondaga which is part of Syracuse University's campus. Last year the Navy crew won the varsity race, while Washington won the freshman and jayvee events. The Huskies always have one of the strongest crews in the nation.

Brightman's Stork Club

Chieftains Prepare For Opener

Coach Al Brightman is still looking for a combination that will "click." In scrimmages against the Papooses, Coach Al has used about every combination which is available, but he still hasn't found the right one. To date, the Chiefs seem to lack the facility of producing the blazing fast-break that has been the trademark of the team in the past. The ball-handling, like the shooting, has been terrific at times, but very inconsistent.

Stan Glowaski, junior letterman and a mainstay on the Chieftain five last year, seems to have taken up right where he left off. He has shown great promise on the fast-break, with the help of some very fine passing from sophomore Cal Bauer. In fact, Bauer to Glowaski may be the Chiefs' big scoring threat this year.

Wayne Sanford, senior letterman and veteran forward, has shown well under the boards, but was slowed down by an ankle injury which he received as a result of a collision with freshman Mike Ronan in a scrimmage.

From all appearances, Bob Godes seems to have worked out some of the kinks in his shooting. He is hitting very well, especially on his outside jump-shot.

Little Joe Pehanick, the pint-size center from Scranton, Pa., looks like he may be a real scorer the way he has been putting in lay-ins and short jump-shots. He has played off the boards fairly well, getting his share of rebounds.

The rambling wreck from Butte, Mont., Emmett Casey, is showing well on offense and has turned in commendable work under the boards.

The big surprise of pre-season drills has been Al Giles. He has shown himself to be a top contender for the starting five with his good shooting, better-than-average rebounding, and fine defensive work.

Cal Bauer and Tom Cox look as though they may be a great guard combination.

Hooray for the New Substitution Rule

When the coaches adopted the new substitution rule, they gave football a real shot in the arm. From now on, the fans may see some real football and not just two platoons of specialists battling to see which offense can score the most touchdowns. The coaching staffs will no longer do the biggest part of the coaching from the bench, but they will have to leave the greater part of play-calling to the quarterback. The players now have the job of playing the game without the help of passing and kicking specialists to help out when the going is tough.

Some of the pressure on football coaches is removed by the new rule, but where pressure is lessened in one place it is increased in others. Coaches are now faced with the problem of getting material which is good enough to play both offense and defense effectively.

Scoring Increases

At a glance, it is interesting to observe that scoring of most college football teams has increased quite a bit as compared with their scoring last year. For example, Notre Dame, the number one team in the nation, has scored 158 points in five games this season. Maryland, ranked number two in the AP "Big Ten," has shown the greatest difference, having scored 242 points in five games, compared to 93 last year. Baylor is one of the few teams in the "Big Ten" which does not show quite as large a margin. The Golden Bears have scored 146 points, compared to 119 in the first five games last season. The "Fighting Illini" of Illinois have shown the next-biggest difference in scoring. Last season, Ray Eliot's boys scored only 44 points in their first five games, but they have atoned for their lack of scoring last year by going out this year and scoring 163 points.

While scoring has increased over last season, passing offense seems to be suffering. According to figures released by the NCAA, comparing last year's passing with this year's: yardage gained via passes has dropped 22.5 per cent, the number of completions thus far has decreased by 23.2 per cent, and the number of passes attempted has declined by 18 per cent.

Basketball Notes

The $64.00 question is what will our Chieftains do this year without the services of John and Ed. Coach Al Brightman appears to be hinging his hopes on defensive ability and height to win the games this season. If early drills are any indication of what the season play will be like, then Brightman has come up with another great year. With the height which the Chiefs have, they should be pretty tough.

The basketball season will get off to a big bang Thursday afternoon, Dec. 3, when the team will be introduced at a pre-game rally. The purpose of the rally is to let the Broadway District know that Seattle University exists and that we have a fine ball club which will go far, though it lacks the furious scoring of the O'Brien twins. I sincerely hope that this year's rally at Ivar's, on Broadway, is not the disgusting flop which it was last year.

Tippy Dye started drills with his Washington Huskies early in the week. Things look pretty slim for the Huskies, but with a fine coach like Dye, you can't count them out. Captain Don Tripp, Dean Parsons, Don Apeland, Roland Halle and Steve Roake are returning lettermen from last year's Pacific Coast Conference championship team. Jim Coshaw, Karl Voegtlin, Mike Monroe and Doyle Perkins are leading sophomore contenders for varsity berths.

This and That

Congratulations to Coach Al Brightman, who was appointed state chairman of the Basketball Coaches Membership Committee. . . . Reports from Portland say that Andy Johnson, ex-Pilot cager, is to be stationed permanently at Ford Ord, Calif., to help the basketball team. . . . In a local paper the other day, a rabid SU fan voiced some resentment about the fact that there were so few boys from Seattle on the squad. Is it the fault of the school that the caliber of Seattle players is not equal to that of the boys from out of town? . . . Isn't it amazing that there are more boys on the SU basketball team from out of town than on the whole UW football team. SO WHAT! . . . Seattle Prep looks like a sure bet to win the Cross-State football championship. If—Prep beats Stadium of Tacoma at Tacoma, Friday night, John Goodwin's Panther eleven looks like a good bet for an invitation to play the City Champs in the Thanksgiving Day game.

Ski Team Faces Heavy Schedule

With the first year of skiing on a big-time basis nationally, Seattle University's ski team, under the guidance of their new coach, Robert St. Louis, are preparing for a top schedule of seven college meets.

Climaxing the season will be the Nationals to be held in Reno, Nev., the week-end of March 6 and 7, under the jurisdiction of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

For the first time in the history of the sport the NCAA has taken over college skiing and will govern it under its own rules.

Major changes from the old rules this season will include: transfer students must be enrolled at the university for one year before they are eligible to compete, and no freshman or foreign exchange student may participate in regular meets.

Each section will be represented by the top two teams, to be chosen in the district finals, plus the top five men in each event. Sanctioned NCAA events include downhill, slalom, cross country, jumping, the Nordic events, and alpine.

The Chieftain squad will start workouts for the coming season in the gym and will move to Stevens Pass next month for serious training.

The meet schedule:

Jan. 10—Rossland (A)

Jan. 17—Whitman (at Sprout Springs)

Jan. 24—Open

Jan. 31—Stevens Downhill

Feb. 7—Banff (A)

Feb. 14—Washington State (A)

Feb. 21—Open

THE LAUREL WREATH TO JOHN DUYUNGAN

An active interest in school affairs, along with outstanding school spirit, has merited John Duyungan a due encomium.

With his graduation from O'Dea High School, John left an active sports record behind him. By playing basketball and football two years on the varsity team he was able to acquire his two letters. His athletic experience was broadened by an opportunity to do some coaching.

After a year in the army John enrolled at Seattle University. His main interest centered on the school's Sodality so that he was selected as the Head Counsellor for Men, a position which he fills with much efficiency. This year, John was elected president of his Sophomore class and is also on the Assembly Board. The Blood Drive and Good Neighbor Campaign received his utmost support. Alpha Phi Omega may count him as one of its members along with the Hi-Yu Coolie Hiking Club. The first dance of the year, the Barn Dance, had John as its co-chairman and he also has a part in the variety show, "Texan's Holiday."

A Sophomore in college, John has still a ways to go before he completes his major. A six-year course, he has chosen Law with a minor in Political Science.

Although he has a full schedule, John is never too busy to make a Hi-Yu hike. It may well be said that it is a hobby with him.

For your sincere contributions to Seattle U and your outstanding ability, John, you are selected to receive a tie from Martin & Eckmann. Their University store will present you with one from their wide assortment whenever you are free to visit them.
